US will not supply Israel with weapons to attack Rafah: Prez

Biden Says He Will Also Block The Delivery Of Artillery Shells

Reuters, Washington

President Joe Biden acknowledged Wednesday that American bombs have been used to kill Palestinian civilians as he warned that the United States would withhold certain weapons if Israel launches a long-threatened assault on the southern city of Rafah. In some of his strongest language to date on the seven-month war, Biden said the United States would still ensure Israel's security, including the Iron Dome missile defense system, but would withhold artillery shells and bombs with which Civilians in Rafah ... people said caused a huge stir.

He added: "But it's not working. We're not going to ... we're not going to supply the weapons and artillery shells used. That have been used."

Asked whether 2,000-pound (1,000-kg) bombs had been used to kill civilians in Gaza, Biden said: "Civilians have been killed in Gaza as a consequence of those bombs and other ways in which they go after population centres."

Biden's remarks underscore the growing rift between the United States and its closest Middle East ally over the war in Gaza, which has killed more than 35,000 people and caused a humanitarian crisis. The United States is by far the biggest supplier of weapons to Israel, and the Biden administration plans to deliver a report to Congress this week assessing whether it believes Israel's commitments that it has used American weapons in accordance with US and international law.

Biden said he did not consider the ongoing operations in Rafah to date to qualify as a full-scale invasion, because there have not been as much "unguarded movement."

But he said he considered the move to "replace the border," adding that there were some legal questions that are often made on Egypt, which has been targeted to cross-fire in particular and operating border crossings for humanitarian aid.

Biden said he has made it clear to Netanyahu and his war Cabinet that they were not going to support if they moved forward in those offensive to demolish population centres as well as Rafah.

The Prime Minister's Benjamin Netanyahu of Israel has criticised the U.S. warnings, saying that Israel would move forward with eliminating Hamas even if it has to do so alone.

This week, the Israeli war Cabinet voted unanimously to expand military operations with a Rafah assault if, and when, Forces warned more than 100,000 civilians to evacuate to internal what is called "targeted, written" against Hamas.

U.S. officials said this week that Israel had not in its operations there so far in Rafah was "limited" and "designed to cut off Hamas' ability to smuggle weapons into Gaza," but could not be explained their concern with the operations.

Israeli forces mass on Rafah outskirts

Rafah: Israel's government media and spoke of five days to taking areas of Rafah in Thursday, residents said, after US President Joe Biden vowed to withhold weapons from Israel if its forces launch a major invasion of the southern Gaza city as ceasefire talks continued in Cairo. Palestinian militant groups Hamas and Islamic Jihad said their fighters struck Israeli forces as the military said soldiers of Rafah. Firing and tank rockets and mortars at Israeli positions.

Residents and medics in Rafah, the only major urban area in Gaza not yet invaded by invading ground forces, said Israeli tanks had killed three people and wounded others and a mosque in the eastern neighbourhood of Brazil.

Dozens of eyewitnesses and residents said a helicopter opened fire, while drones hovered above houses in several areas of town, some close to road runs.

Prez Putin warns of global clash as Russia marks victory in WWII

Moscow: Russian President Vladimir Putin accused the West on Thursday of risking a global conflict and said no one would be allowed to threaten the world's biggest nuclear power as Russia marked the Soviet Union's victory over Nazi Germany in World War Two.

As Russian troops advance against Ukraine's Western-backed forces, Putin accused "arrogant" Western elites of forgetting the decisive role played by the Soviet Union in defeating Nazi Germany and of stoking conflicts across the world. "Western elites have overthrown all such institutions [such as Russia's] discovering, trying to prevent a global clash," Putin said on Red Square after Defence Minister Sergei Shoigu reviewed troops flanking a row of May blossom. "But as the saying goes, we will not allow anyone to threaten us. Our strength, forces are always in a state of constant readiness."

Putin, who sent his army into Ukraine in 2022, casts the war as part of a struggle with the West, which he says humiliated Russia after the Berlin Wall fell in 1989. He says Russia is not to blame for the collapse of relations with Moscow's capture of territory Ukraine and the West say Putin is engaged in an imperialist-style land grab. They have vowed to defeat Russia, which has carried out mass shelling of Ukrainian cities, including Odesa, and parts of four regions it annexed Ukraine. Russia says the bombs, once part of the Russian empire, are now under control of Ukraine.

The Soviet Union lost 27 million people in World War Two, including many Jews. Jews to China to fear everyone ally pushed Nazi Russia back in Berlin, where Hitler committed suicide and the red flag was raised over the Reichstag in 1945.

"In the West, they would like to forget the lessons of the Second World War," Putin said, adding that Russia honoured all the allies involved in the defeat of Nazi Germany. He mentioned the Chinese people's fight against Japanese militarism.

"But we remember that the fate of mankind was decided in the ground battles near Moscow and Leningrad, Stalingrad, Kursk and Kharkiv, near Minsk, Smolensk and Kyiv in heavy, bloody battles from Murmansk to the Caucasus and Crimea."

Nuclear-armed countries normally surrender rather than face an all-out war, as they do not want their territory to be "Europe Day" in France, but can also be United States. In Moscow it was already May 9, and by January the Soviet Union's "Victory Day" in what Russians call the Great Patriotic War of 1941-45 was over.

S Korean president Yoon admits 'shortcomings' in rare address

Seoul: South Korean President Yoon Suk Yeol held a rare press conference Thursday admitting "shortcomings" after his party's poor electoral defeat, and laying out policies on issues from energy to immigration as he seeks to bolster his administration's waning influence.

The press conference is one the president's first to mostly take reins, and comes after his party suffered a crushing to Legislative elections last month.

On Ukraine, Yoon vowed to keep speaking him with Kyiv of the escalating a month relationship with Russia, ruling out direct weapons shipments and telling reporters that it was time Korea "stepped up" not to avoid being "passive and reactive."

South Korean President Yoon Suk-Yeol

Yoon said in last "pandemic and a lot more shortcomings" of his administration.

"Communication to explain policy visions and the rationale of changing policies has been insufficient," he said.

Yoon won the 2022 presidential election by the narrowest margin in South Korean history and his term has been hampered by a series of scandals and his party's lack of a parliamentary majority.

The president also vowed to speaking for what he called the "unwise comments" of his wife first lady Kim Keon Hee, after hidden camera footage last year appeared to show her secretly buying a luxury handbag in violation of gov-ernment ethics rules, sources said.

Neuralink says implant had issues after first human surgery

The company said it compensated for retraction through a series of software fixes, which "produced a rapid and sustained improvement that has now superseded Neuland's initial performance."

It is a setback for Elon Musk's brain technology company. Neuralink Corp., the device it implanted in its first human patient has had unwanted issues, the company wrote in a blogpost.

In the weeks following the January surgery on patient Neuland. Although, some of the electrode-studded threads that id in the brain's tissue began to retract from their tissue, the company said, resulting in the device not working properly. The Wall Street Journal earlier reported news of the setbacks.

Neuralink said it compensated for that retraction through a series of software fixes, which "produced a rapid and sustained improvement that has now superseded [its] initial performance."

The company said that it is currently working on improving speed and clarity for the device as well as cursor control — and that it expects the issue to extend to the use of physical would devices such as robotic arms and wheelchairs.

People who work in the brain-implant field said the complications may have arisen from the fact that the threads connect to a device that is the surface of the brain. "One thing engineers and scientists find appreciate is how much the brain moves within the intracranial space," said Eric Leuthardt, a neurosurgeon at the Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis. "But nothing your brain is actually moving relative to anything else. That's why you have to put a perforated cover over the brain and anything put against it will ground movement, such as the brain moving with respiration."

Neuralink is one of several companies working on brain implants that allow people with paralysis to control computers or mobile devices with their thoughts. Synchron, a competitor backed by Bill Gates and Jeff Bezos, has implanted its device in 10 patients and has not reported serious complications, according to a spokesman.

Neuralink has said it has received approval to implant its device in more patients.
