HE-MAN DHARMENDRA NO MORE | The 89-yr-old actor had been in and out of Mumbai's Breach Candy hospital for several days

YAADON KI BAARAAT

1935-2025

FP NEWS SERVICE

Dango and Sahnewal, two laid back villages in Punjab's Ludhiana district located about 30 kilometres apart, are mourning their son of the soil and Bollywood's original He-Man Dharmendra's demise.

As the news of the legend's death flashed across news channels, Dango and Sahnewal slipped into deep mourning. Born in Nasrali village in 1935, Dharam Singh Deol and his family shifted to Sahnewal and settled there after his father, Kewal Kishen Singh Deol, a schoolteacher, was transferred there.

While Sahnewal is mostly identified with Dharmendra, people of Dango, which is the ancestral village of the late actor, also have fond memories of him.

According to Dharmendra's friend Parminder Singh, the actor would meet people here like an ordinary villager, shedding the aura common for a Bollywood megastar. "He made us feel that he was like any one of us," said Dharmendra's friend, who is now in his eighties. Ganshyam Lote recalled that despite being quite busy in Mumbai, Dharmendra never forgot Ludhiana, and Sahnewal in particular.

Once, some land owned by the actor's family in Ludhiana was illegally occupied. However, with the support of the local administration, he managed to get it vacated, Lote said.

While Dharmendra did not visit these places much of late due to his advanced age, locals attest that if anyone from these villages tried to meet him in Mumbai, the actor would gladly comply.

Dharmendra also had a deep connection with Phagwara. His father, Kewal Kishen Singh Deol, taught in Arya High School at Hoshiarpur Road in Phagwara and lived in the Sarafan Bazaar area, and the actor used to visit him.

Part of the Bollywood legend's schooling and his initial college days were in Phagwara.

Dharmendra visited his family friends -- the Parmars -- in Phagwara on January 12, 2006, spending about three hours there, meeting his old associates.

Gurdas Ram, a noted 'Hakeem' in Phagwara, was the maternal uncle of the Bollywood legend. Ram hailed from nearby Lakhpur village but later settled in Phagwara. Notably, eminent Punjabi film actor Varinder was Dharmendra's cousin.

He was married to Prakash Kaur. They have four children – sons, actors Bobby and Sunny Deol, and two daughters, Vijeta and Ajeeta. In 1980, the actor tied the knot with his frequent co-star Hema Malini after allegedly converting to Islam, a claim Dharmendra denied. The couple share daughters Esha and Ahana.

Dharmendra's brief political stint

Dharmendra entered politics in 2004 when he joined the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) ahead of the Lok Sabha elections. The party fielded him from Rajasthan's Bikaner constituency, a seat that the Congress had won twice in a row. He had defeated Congress candidate Rameshwar Lal Dudi by nearly 60,000 votes and gained close to six per cent more vote share.

'Farmer' who lived at his Lonavala farmhouse

Dharmendra often described himself as a farmer first and actor second. He eventually settled into a farmhouse in Lonavala, while the rest of his family lived in Juhu, Mumbai.

WHY POLITICS DIDN'T WORK FOR HIM

Dharmendra soon realised political life was not what he expected. He faced frequent criticism during his five-year term for staying away from constituency matters and spending more time on film shoots or at his farmhouse. His attendance in Parliament was also below the national average, drawing attacks from the opposition.

UP INTENSIFIES HUNT FOR ILLEGAL B'DESHIS, ROHINGYAS

Biswajeet Banerjee
LUCKNOW

Uttar Pradesh has launched an extensive verification campaign to track illegal Bangladeshi and Rohingya settlers after intelligence inputs indicated a steady rise in forged identities and organised infiltration networks across several districts. The drive, initiated on the instructions of Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath, aims to identify foreign nationals living illegally, move them to detention centres and complete nationality verification before deportation.

Officials say the scale of the problem has grown over the past two years, with multiple ATS operations exposing organised gangs that not only facilitated cross-border entry but also arranged Indian identity papers and engaged in human trafficking. The UP ATS has arrested nearly 200 Bangladeshi and Rohingya nationals in the past eight years, yet agencies believe many more are living across the state using forged ration cards, Aadhaar and even voter IDs.

In 2023, the ATS arrested Mohammad Arman alias Abu Talha and Abdul Amin from Ballia for allegedly arranging infiltration, securing Aadhaar and passports, and sending foreign nationals abroad. The same year, 74 Rohingya citizens were arrested in a statewide operation, during which several individuals who had crossed into India from Myanmar were caught.

In Jhansi, the police moved swiftly after the Chief Minister's directive, initiating verification of 875 outsourced sanitation workers of the municipal corporation. The Local Intelligence Unit is cross-checking their records, while district teams have been ordered to submit their findings to the government within a week.

SSP BBGTS Murthy said recent inputs suggested that several infiltrators living in the city had obtained forged identity documents and even enrolled themselves in the voter list. Police teams are now combing slum settlements to detect such individuals.

Clusters in smaller districts

Authorities have found that the issue is no longer limited to major cities like Lucknow, Noida and Ghaziabad. Illegal settlers have created clusters in smaller districts by blending into the local population through low-wage jobs such as sanitation work, scrap collection, domestic labour and rickshaw pulling. Many live in slums, makeshift huts or on the edges of railway lines and riverbanks, making identification difficult.

Briefing newspersons in the context, chief minister Bhagwant Mann and Punjab's ruling Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) national convener Arvind Kejriwal said that since decades people have been seeking holy city status for these towns.

Resolution passed at a special Vidhan Sabha session in Anandpur Sahib, first time in the history of state that a session was held outside the Assembly building in Chandigarh on the occasion commemoration of 350th martyrdom anniversary of Guru Tegh Bahadur

They said that during the programmes dedicated to the 350th martyrdom day of Guru Tegh Bahadur, this special session of the Punjab Legislative Assembly is being held on the sacred soil of Anandpur Sahib.

They said the sale and use of meat, liquor, tobacco, and other intoxicants will be prohibited in these cities to fulfil the long-pending demand of the devotees.

Earlier, Mann moved this resolution in the Punjab assembly which was unanimously passed by the Vidhan Sabha. He said that along with this, an interfaith committee related to all religious institutions in these holy cities will be formed, comprising representatives of all faiths.

Mann said that the state government will make dedicated efforts for the development, cleanliness, security, and promotion of religious tourism in these holy cities. He said that for this state government will allocate the necessary budget, and also seek funds from the Central government as this is imperative to perpetuate the legacy of these towns for our coming generations.

K'TAKA: 'Power shift' gains steam with Rahul's return

Even as CM Siddaramaiah and Deputy CM D K Shivakumar continue to put up a "friendly gesture", sharing dais at Sidlaghatta on Monday, the power tiff between the two gained momentum with LoP Rahul Gandhi returning from his trip abroad.

While D K Shivakumar's long-term friend and MLC B K Hariprasad called upon Rahul Gandhi in Delhi, a fresh team of around eight MLAs, all Shivakumar supporters have landed in Delhi. Meanwhile, Siddaramaiah supporters have been preparing to hold 'AHINDA' (Minorities, Backward Class and Dalits) rallies in the state against any move to change the leadership. On Monday, Siddaramaiah said he would continue to be chief minister if the party high command asked him to continue. Otherwise, everyone would have to listen to the party high command.

Though Siddaramaiah camp had been trying to stall power transfer for the last six months, D K Shivakumar had ensured that his camp did not speak a word. However, on November 20, he sent a team of his supporters to Delhi to send sufficient signals that he was out to get what was promised to him in 2023. Despite his brother D K Suresh directly telling Siddaramaiah to "stand by the promises he made", Shivakumar continued to say that he would obey the orders of the party high command.

Meanwhile, Opposition leader R Ashok created a controversy saying that the Siddaramaiah and D K Shivakumar camps were busy in purchasing MLAs. Ashok said that each MLA was being offered Rs 50 lakh cash, an apartment and a car.

A personal assistant of Maharashtra minister Pankaja Munde was arrested here on Monday on charges of abetting the suicide of his dentist wife, police said.

The accused Anant Garje was produced before a magistrate's court, which remanded him to police custody till November 27.

Police told the court that Garje's interrogation is necessary as the other accused in the case are yet to be arrested and the post-mortem report is awaited.

Garje's lawyer, however, contended that the accused had voluntarily presented himself at the police station and was fully cooperating in the investigation.

Garje's wife Dr Gauri Palve (28), a dentist at civic-run KEM hospital in Mumbai, allegedly hanged herself in her flat at Worli in central Mumbai on Saturday due to a domestic dispute, nearly 10 months after their marriage, an official said.

Displaced villagers in Imphal East clash with security forces

IMPHAL: Hundreds of internally displaced people (IDPs) staying in relief camps clashed with security forces at Pukhao and near Dolaithabi Dam in Manipur's Imphal East district on Monday as they attempted to return to their homes, officials said.

IDPs from Ekou, Dolaithabi and Yengkhuman localities, who had been staying in relief camps, attempted to march towards their homes but were stopped by security forces.

The security forces fired tear gas shells to disperse the protesters, they said.

The IDPs claimed that with the annual Sangai festival underway, normalcy has returned in the state and they should be allowed to go back.

Synergy is armed forces' strength, Op Sindoor its apt example: Dwivedi

PTI
MUMBAI

Army Chief General Upendra Dwivedi on Monday said the strength of armed forces lies in synergy and Operation Sindoor is an apt example of this.

He was speaking during the commissioning of INS Mahe, the first of the Mahe-class anti-submarine warfare shallow water craft, in Mumbai.

"The strength of our armed forces lies in synergy," General Dwivedi said. The sea, land, skies form the single continuum of national security and together the Army, Navy and the Air Force form the trinity of India's strategic strength. In the age of multi-domain operations, the country's ability to act in concert from the depths of the ocean to the highest frontier will determine the security influence of the Indian republic, he said.
